

Philipp Ellenbeck

Philipp Ellenbeck is co-founder of mixxt and head of the IT department (CTO). He is responsible for the development of the mixxt infrastructure, the front-end and the quality assurance.

He has been a freelancer within the internet sector for ages and successfully executed various projects for his customers. Later, during his studies of Business Informatics, he was responsible for the development of CMS and CMR systems for the public cultural scene, pharmaceutical and IT enterprises.

During his three year work at a banking house, Philipp gained well-founded knowledge concerning network management and infrastructure development. His tasks covered e.g. the construction of redundant data processing centres.
